Posted by Lanning Taliaferro April 6, 2010

The Katonah Bedford Veterinary Center will participate again this year in a volunteer event designed to help service dogs and their owners.

So for the month of may board certified veterinary ophthalmologist, Dr. Cory Mosunic, will be doing free eye exams.

During 2009's event Dr. Mosunic was quoted on a pet blog (http://blog.seattlepi.com/deltasociety/archives/199978.asp?from=blog_last3) hosted by the Seattle Post-Intelligencer explained that the vets were looking for early signs of eye trouble or anything that could limit the dog's vision in the future.
