

Free eye exams for police dogs and service dogs

Melissa Dunbar-Gates 6 hrs ago

Melissa Dunbar-Gates is live in Maumelle with veterinary ophthalmologist Dr. Bill Miller, Little Rock police officer Laura Pritchett and K-9 Bady to discuss the free exams. According to Dr. Miller, the goal of this program is to detect eye problems before it takes the dogs out of service.

"We don't think about all the things that these dogs do for us in our lives, from drug detection, from bomb detection, homeland security, diabetic detection...everything from living assistance to seizure detection," says Dr. Miller.

Dr. Miller also points out that if these dogs can't see, they become a liability not only to themselves but also to the people who rely on them.

To find out if you have a dog that qualifies for the free eye exam and directions on how to register, visit .

Advertisement